THE TRIAL OF HOPE H. SLATTER for th

The treat of Hope H. Slavter for the marder of Michael Hassey was begun vester-day. In other columns will be found a revolution report of the proceedings, specially made for this paper by the firm of Mitchell & Fritcher, stenographers.

The Baltimore Gasetie, the leading organ of the Democracy of Maryland, continues its plaintive appeals to the members of its party in that State to manifest more zeal in the organization of their forces in the several counties, and invokes its "friends in every election district to give this important matter their immediate attention." The Gasetic further expresses the opinion that its friends are too apathetic. We have heard of apathy as a political disease before, but when the true diagnosis is taken it was generally discovered that the victims are suffering from an attack of extreme and well-merited disgust. We believe that the people of Maryland are now suffering from a feeling of this same disgust, and that it has been provoked by the solish administration of the affairs of the State by the Democracy. They know that they have waited for years for relief from the status of their desire for a change.

Dr. Tudor, formerly, the New Orleans Christian Adv. the Algerines, like Hinton, who have Algerines, like Himon, was un-e past two years misrepresenting on of affairs in this city and slav ecomplished in the District since the present coverament came into power—a trutful dicture of the past and present—a prophesy of the future that will certainly be realized

A CONSERVATIVE TRICK EXPOSED.
Although there is in round numbers a majority of 250,000 white over the black voters of Virginia, it is evident, from the tone and conduct of the Conservative press, that they rely on the apparent apathy of the blacks to carry the State. The Richmond Whig, in particular, has devoted a great deal of space, and more brains than it could well spare for such a purpose, to argaments to prove that the Republican ticket, with Colonel R. W. Hughes at its head, is composed of gentlemen who are or have been composed of gentlemen who are or have been infriendly to the colored race. The records of a generation have been ransacked to furnish a basis for those arguments, and the bombastic rhetoric of all the sigm-Conserva-tive writers in the State has been invoked to dress up those arguments in a convincing style. When the campaign began the same papers were loud-mouthed and blatant in their efforts to array the two races against each other by appeals to the prejudices of the whites and misstatesegan the same papers were lond-monthed and blatant in their efforts to array the two races against each other by appeals to the prejudices of the whites and mistastement of facts relative to the condition of affairs in other Southern distate. The horrible pictures painted by them, and presented to their readers with each successive issue, or agreed to their standard with the successive issue, or agreed to their and opportunity of the subject to the subject of the Sate, which subject to the subject of the Sate, which subject to the subject of the subject

They know that even at this late day the laws passed by a Conservative Legislature are un-just and restrictive as applied to the school-leg of their children. They remember the threats and intimidations which have the threats and intimidations which have been visited upon them at previous elections to prevent them from casting their votes in accordance with the dic-tates of their conscience. With this knowledge of the record of the Democratic party in the past, and with the heartfelt asurance that a change can only be accomplished through a Republican victory, not a vote unpoiled for Hughes is equal to a vote east for your enemies.

A SOUTHERN FET.

Ever since John Mitchell at the beginning of the late war proved recreant to the cause of true Democracy and Republicanism at the North and allied himself with the pro-slavery party he has been one of the idols of the played-out, fossilized Bourbons of that section. Only this week, for Instance, a Southern paper in the "Old Dominion" refers to him as follows: "The latter proved his devotion to his race by the sacrifice of his best years in the Southern cause, and of two mobile sons on the battle-hild." By "his race" we suppose our Southern cotemporary means the "Irish race.

This view of the matter is an insult to every Irishman in the North, and we are astonished to see a journal of so much intelligence as the Petersburg Index so ill-informed, so partisan and prejudiced as to make it. John Mitchell, when he left the State which had received him so generously as one of its adopted children, when he left it to use his pen and sword against her as a member of the Union, was a deserter and a traitor. For mere argument's sake we discuss it from a State's rights standpoint. If it was right in Robert E. Lee to go with his State in the late conflict, then it was wrong in Mitchell to have gone against the State of New York. But independently of this, Jao. Mitchell was a traitor to the cause of human freedom. In his own country he expoused the cause of the poor and oppressed who were held in a sort of white slavery by a tyrannical jourernment. and oppressed who were held in a sort of white slavery by a tyrannical government and a still more tyrannical landlord class. He broke the laws of his government in the cause of the white bondsmen of Ireland as John Brown broke the laws of the State of Virginia in the cause of black bondsmen. Mitchell was sentenced to death as Brown

When Mitchell stood in a felon's dock his quotation, as the only answer to his accusers, of the famous couplet

"Whether on the gallows high,
The filtest piece for man to die to where he does for san," electrified the whole world. But when he came to the United States he forgot all about his devotion to freedom, sighed for "a plantation of nice fat negroes in South Carolina," and endeavored to get one the first opportunity. His public career has been full of the most glaring inconsistencies. As one of the leaders of the Irish people, his course in the United States did more to disgrace them here than almost all other causes combined. That they did not indorse him is shown by the fact that not one of his associates, like Thomas Francis Meagher, went with him into the rebellion, been leading an obscure life, without the least particle of his former influence. The act for which the Southern, and particularly the Virginia journals commend him is the darkest hot upon his record.

"THE HEIRESS IN THE PAMILY," by Mrs. MAYERSHE DARKE, T. B. PETERSON A BROS. publishers, Philadelphia.

"The Heiress in the Pamily," like all of Mrs. Daniels' novels, is a very clever, readable book. The scenes are laid in Rugiand, are directed chiefly to domestic life; not to the quiet, stagmark had that Grace Aguitar and Miss Edgeworth fored to describe. On the contrary, the irregular, againsted, disorderly home is selected. Winifred Persis, the heroine and heiress, is songht in marriage by Leonard Wynne, an indelent but I ascinating young genileman; not through any genuine affection for her, but through an unministable love for her property. The discovery of this unworthy motive after marriage results in numberless accumulation, foars, storny interviews, and, finally, a separation. All these misundervisationings and errors are, however, repaired in penticace and shame, towards the end of the book; and a general return of good sense and good behavior brings about most comfortable hand-shakings and reconclustions, uniting all parties in cordulity and amide.

Stephens has for over a score of years been before the public as a writer of foculon. Her novels have attained a certain hasy popularity among light, indiscriminating rearres. They assume no profundity, no depth; are of the light, rarriads kind, with just enough substance to wave and food—never enough density to become grounded and fixed as compositions of vatice. These novels are now gathered in setz, twenty-one in all. They are bound in moroecoticly, in different colors, and will present quite citel, in different colors, and will present quite cloth, in different colors, and will present quit as elegant appearance on the library shelves anning none but the disagreeable satirist think of saw-dust pice and raw-cotton system. Tire laboring masses of the United States have long left first President Grant was one of the traces friends, and their confidence in him year shown in the majority with which he was re-elected. They will read with the treest the following, from the Louisettle (Ky.) Connectrici; "It is very creatitable to President Grant that the clief anxiety he has shown about the money stringency has been a regard to its effect on the demand for labor, and the liability to loss of employment by many workinen just on the eve of winter. He has expressed the strongest desire to deverything possible to prevent the closing of manufacturing establishments and the discharge of hands.

Tire rights of colored persons on transpor-

The rights of colored persons on transportation routes have again been asserted by the Supreme Court of lows. Emily Cogar, the plaintiff in the case, represented to be an educated and refined colored woman, purchased a first-class ticket on one of the North-vectorn Packet Company's boats, and on going to dinner was furbidden to sit at the inst table, and then opicited from the cabin. She brought suit for damages, won her case in the county court, and now on the appeal has been sustained by the Supreme Court of the State, Chief Justice Reck saying: "First, a rule or custom of a stembont, as a common carrier, requiring passengers of color to occupy a seat at a table in the pantry or the guards of the boat, is not reasonable said cannot be enforced. Second, a person of cannot be conforced. Second, a person of cannot be conforced. Second, a person of cannot be conforced. Second a person of cannot be conforced. The Jeffercon (Iowa) Bee says of the Republican party: "Fresh from some of the grandest victories of right over wrong which the world has ever witnessed, it will march the world has ever witnessed, it will march the world has ever witnessed, it will march until the iron grasp of capital upon the vital interests of the country shall be loosened, and the grouns of our toiling millious shall be heard no more in the land; that party which has so beneficiently bestowed homesteads upon the poor of our country must and will protect them against any power that would lay them under tribute or rob them of the fruits of their honest toil; the party which had its origin in opposition to tyranny, oppression and wrone, and to which the masses have nover appealed in vain for a redress of their grievance, is equal to the present emergency, and it needed no new and hasty departure, no putting out of political disguises and the tinsel and trumpery of political decett, to place it in opposition, as it has been placed, to the encroachments of railway monopolies, and monopolies of all other kinds which now so heavily oppress the people.

Then New York Commencerial Advertiser says of the farmers movement: "Railway corporations, manufacturers, and all phose who had dealings with the farmer have taken advantage of his isolation to drive a hard bargain with him. His mode of life has left him helpless in their hands. They had organization, and he had notifing but his own brain and hands to oppose it. Thus things went on, from bad to worse, until the idea struck the Western Farmers that they might as well organize also. At once they went to work, and now thousands of granges of the Patrous of Husbandry are scattered through the West, bringing agriculturists together it, a body and instructing them in their rights and their needs. Their discussions have not been of a pollitical nature alone, but they have compared notes on their pr
